

PARENT & GUARDIAN FAQs

Who do I contact if I have questions during the program?

Our Pre-College Summer Office is the main point of connection for students and families with questions about the program. Our staff will be able to direct you to the appropriate staff to assist you and/or your teen. Our Associate Director, Youth Programs is the lead for academic or instructor concerns and prioritizing students' educational goals. Likewise, our Pre-College Summer Office is the point of contact for campus life outside of the classroom, including being the liaison for campus resources.

How can I make sure that my teen is getting the feedback they need on their work?

Our program is designed for students to receive endless feedback to enhance their skills over the summer. If your teen feels lost in their work, have them reach out to their instructor for guidance. We will also hold a virtual portfolio review event for students to show their portfolio to RISD alumni and admissions officers for feedback.

My teen is homesick. Who can I connect them with?

As you can imagine, this is common in the first week of the program. Have your teen reach out to their RA and let them know that they are missing home. Our Resident Advisors attend a week-long training that includes working with youth that are homesick.

Should they be working on homework outside of class?

Yes. Students are expected to take time each night to work on their projects from class. The curriculum will require students to practice time management skills and prioritize projects. Unlike subject areas such as math or science, artmaking takes more time for concept development, practicing new materials and methods, and unexpected creative turns in the process.

Where do I mail packages to?

Student's Name

Mailbox Number (If you need your student's mailbox number, the Pre-College Summer Office can look it up for you.)

20 Washington Place

Rhode Island School of Design

Providence RI, 02903

Can my teen change their room if they find someone else they want to room with?

Residence Life places students based on the preference indicated on the survey they filled out on their on-line housing application. If roommates are having trouble navigating their living situation, they should contact Residence Life for mediation. Given the short nature of the program, room switches are only granted in extreme circumstances.

What does curfew check look like in the residence halls?

Resident Assistant will take attendance at 10 pm Sunday-Thursday and 11 pm on Friday and Saturdays. Once the student is accounted for they are able to walk the interior of their building, visiting friends and workspaces. Students found to be outside of their building after curfew may be dismissed from the program.

What do I do if my teen is not calling me as frequently as they used to?

This is common when students fully engage in the program, attending evening events, meeting new friends and becoming invested in their work. We find it helpful when families set communication expectations at the start of the summer. If you are concerned about your teen's safety or well-being, call Public Safety to request a wellness check.

How can I see my teen's grades during the program?

We encourage students to keep open communication with their families about their grades and class attendance. Due to the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA), we cannot release information that lives with a student record unless the student has signed and submitted a FERPA waiver through the online student dashboard.

My teen called me with an issue. What can I do?

There is always someone on campus to help students navigate their concerns. This summer gives teens the framework to increase their independence. Encourage your student to reach out to one of our key campus offices found on the back of this handout.

What does the community for commuters look like?

We have a special Commuter Welcome and Social on Saturday, June 24 from 6:30 pm–7:30 pm to kick the summer community off together. Evening activities and off-campus trips are open to commuting students. Commuters are also welcome to socialize in residential spaces as long as they are accompanied by a residential student from that building.
